

DR. SOPE WILLIAMS-ELEGBE

Sope has an LL.B (Hons) from the University of Lagos, where she currently teaches, an LL.M (with distinction) from the London School of Economics, and a PhD in Anti-Corruption and Public Procurement Law from the University of Nottingham. Sope has taught at the universities of Stirling and Nottingham, both in the UK, and has been a visiting scholar at the Universities of Cape Town (2006), Stellenbosch (2011) and Lagos (2012). Her research and teaching interests lie in the fields of commercial law, corporate governance, public procurement law, anti-corruption law, open government, and business ethics. She was a member of the World Bank's International Technical Advisory Group on Procurement from 2008-2011 and for several years, she taught the UK Foreign Office course on Responsible Business at the University of Nottingham. In 2014, she assisted the UN to draft the guidelines for open government in Africa.

Sope is the author of over 35 publications, including the book: Fighting Corruption in Public Procurement: A Comparative Analysis of Disqualification or Debarment Measures (Hart, 2012). She is currently working on her second book, which examines procurement regulation in development banks. In 2008, her research was cited by the Constitutional Court of South Africa in Shaik v The State, in which corruption allegations were leveled against President Jacob Zuma.

Sope is an editor of the Journal of African Law (Cambridge University Press); the African Public Procurement Law Journal (Stellenbosch University). Sope is currently a Senior Lecturer at the University of Lagos, and is a Research Fellow and the Deputy Director of the African Public Procurement Regulation Research Unit at the University of Stellenbosch.

Sope's research at the CCLA is on Corporate Governance Rating Systems as a Means of Targeting Corporate Misconduct in Africa.
