

Mr Akin Olawale Oluwadayisi

Mr Akin Olawale Oluwadayisi Akin Olawale Oluwadayisi is a scholar, a researcher, Consultant, Arbitrator and Notary Public. He holds LL.B (Hons) in Law with Second Class Upper Division from Adekunle Ajasin University, Akungba and B.L. with Second Class Upper Division from Nigerian Law School and was admitted to practice law in Nigeria in 2009. He equally holds LL.M (Common Law) Degree and a Ph.D Candidate at the University of Ilorin, Ilorin, Nigeria. He had his brief practicing experience with Yemi-Akinseye-George & Co. (now Professor Yemi Akinseye-George SAN & Partners) as an Associate Counsel before setting up his own legal consultancy firm; Benakol Consulting-dedicated to academic research, advocacy and consultancy. He has published articles on contemporary legal issues in both local and international journals and delivered papers at International conferences. He is the editor of essays titled Electoral Law Reforms and Constitutionalism in Nigeria, co-editor of essays titled Contemporary Issues on Labour Law, Employment and National Industrial Court Practice and Procedures. He also authored the books titled: Practical Approach to Civil and Criminal Litigation, Sample Drafts for Lawyers and recently, co-authored a monograph titled Comparative Analysis of Customary and Islamic Laws as Sources of Nigerian Legal System. He is an Adjunct Assessor and External Examiner with the Nigerian Law School, Abuja. He was a former lecturer at Pan-African Institute of Paralegal Studies, Abuja. He currently teaches Company Law, Entrepreneurial Law and Constitutional Law at the Faculty of Law, Adekunle Ajasin University, Akungba-Akoko, Ondo State, Nigeria. He is a fellow of the Institute of Policy Management and Development (Nigeria), member of Nigerian Association of Law Teachers, Nigerian Bar Association, International Association of Legal Ethics and other Professional Bodies.

Paper presented in 2018: "A comparative analysis of boards of public companies and their impact under the codes of corporate governance in Nigeria and South Africa"