This course seeks to foster an understanding of the policy, statutory, and economic dimensions of competition law and policy in South Africa.

Competition law is a niche area of law that impacts firms, their employees, customers, and consumers. The Competition Act No 89 of 1998 aims to protect and promote competition in markets, while ensuring transformation. It is heavily influenced by economics and economists. An understanding of the subject requires an appreciation of the legislation applicable and the economic ideas that guide the application of the law.

The course is aimed at: attorneys, advocates, legal graduates, legal advisors, corporate counsel, regulatory professionals, NGOs and trade unions with an interest in enforcing the Competition Act.

PRESENTED BY: Advocate Candice Slump - competition law litigation specialist
