Government procurement accounts for a substantial part of the global economy and is therefore closely regulated in law to prevent fraud, waste, corruption or local protectionism.

This course will cover the important aspects of public procurement, explain the relevant procurement law, analyse the new Procurement Act 28 of 2024 and discuss what has been achieved with regards to procurement policy, procedures and best practice.

The ideal course for advocates and attorneys; legal advisors; legal practitioners; government officials (national, provincial and local); anyone who has an interest in government procurement.

PRESENTED BY: Tanaka Mparutsa - LLB (University of Fort Hare); LLM in Commercial Law (UCT) - focusing on Legal Aspects of Corporate Finance; Corporate Governance; Advanced Contract Law and International Trade Law. LLM in International Commercial Law and Practice (University of Edinburgh, Scotland).
