In the "twin peaks" model of financial services regulation, introduced by The FSR Act, the regulating authorities of the financial services sector are divided into two centres: the Prudential Authority and the Financial Sector Conduct Authority. Other legislation, such as the Insurance Act and the Conduct of Financial Institutions ("CoFI") bill, mean further developments in the industry.

This course aims to demystify the relevant legislation that governs the twin peaks regulatory environment and aid participants in understanding the fundamentals.

The course will benefit attorneys, accountants, financial advisers, asset managers, and anyone else interested in the financial services industry.

PRESENTED BY: Tanaka Mparutsa - LLB (University of Fort Hare); LLM in Commercial Law (UCT) - focusing on Legal Aspects of Corporate Finance; Corporate Governance; Advanced Contract Law and International Trade Law. LLM in International Commercial Law and Practice (University of Edinburgh, Scotland).
